Grant Activity

The Fulbright Scholar is expected to teach:

1. one 24 hour course (2-4 hours per week – 20/30 students) to the undergraduate and master students (Department of Sciences and Technologies, Department of Engineering, Department of Economics)
2. one 25 hour module to the students of the PhD curricula carried out in the Departments of Science, Engineering, and Economy at Parthenope University (limited to 15-20 students).

Students have their own books, internet access, and laptops, but reading material from the visiting Professor is welcome. The choice of the course contents depends on the Scholar's specific expertise and will be agreed upon with the Fulbright Program Coordinator at the host university. After agreement is reached, a syllabus for both courses will be required.

Other grant activity:

The visiting Scholar is expected to provide the undergraduate students with an overall picture of the organization of American undergraduate and graduate curricula in the United States, in order to enable the students to decide about spending a study period in the United States.

The Scholar is expected to interact with some of the PhD students, suggesting options, research pathways, hypotheses, and other tutorial activities, and supervising presentations and seminars.

Finally, he/she is also expected and warmly invited to interact with local Researchers in the same field as well as with Faculty of undergraduate and PhD students, in order to promote and/or implement new bilateral research options and training curricula in the field.

Special Features

Parthenope University is eager to support the Fulbright Scholar in his/her research activity in close collaboration with Italian colleagues. The possibility of submitting jointly-authored papers is appreciated. The collaboration may lead to the design of new joint projects and the submission of proposals to international or national Boards for funding.

Parthenope University will support the Fulbright scholar in organizing lectures in other Italian universities and institutions, in order to expand his/her collaboration options and also to increase the visibility of the Fulbright activities in Italy.

Parthenope University will also rely on its Europe-wide links in order to provide the Scholar with options for additional collaboration. This may lead to the participation in European conferences or workshops of interest to the Scholar and the collaborating Parthenope colleagues.

Degree Requirements

Ph.D. (or other terminal degree) not required

Additional Qualification Information

Ph.D. or other terminal degree preferred but not mandatory.

Teaching experience: 5 or more years of teaching experience. Professionals/non-academic with five years of documented activities and/or publications in the above indicated fields and disciplines are also considered.

Age is not an upper or lower limiting factor: applications from experienced colleagues and qualified younger researchers at the beginning of their research career are welcome and will be considered.

Additional Language Requirement

Conversational Italian is helpful to better integrate in the local community, but it is not mandatory.

Invitation Requirement

A letter of invitation should not be sought

Additional Comments

Visa Information: In cases where the Fulbright Scholar chooses a period of stay of more than three months, the University will provide assistance to the Scholar for the issuance of the visa for the purpose of family reunification before departure and at their arrival. Fees for the issue of visa(s) are charged to the Scholar.

The Scholar will receive information about the officer in charge of such assistance after the issuance of the Grant Authorization by the US - Italy Fulbright Commission.

Academic Calendar:

Fall Semester: 1st October-31st January – Exams in February

Spring Semester: 1st March-30 June – Exams in July

Special Award Benefits

Parthenope University cannot provide free housing, but will help the visiting professor to find a suitable accommodation.

Office and facilities (desk computer, Xerox, phone, fax, internet access and a personal internet account) are provided. The International Project & Research Office at Parthenope University is available to support the Scholar for any additional needs related to accommodation, bureaucracy, language courses, other local resources at University and city levels.

Several cultural events are organized by the University as well as by the city administration and cultural institutions. Most of them are free and the University will keep the Scholar informed about their calendar and other details.

The Fulbright Scholar will be eligible for the Fulbright Inter-country Travel Grant Program, <http://www.fulbright.it/fulbright-intercountry/> [5], and to receive a travel grant to lecture, hold workshops and conduct other relevant outreach activity at other Italian and European academic institutions.
