Application Deadline

Closed

Award Activity

Applicants may propose research projects or a combination of teaching/research in any discipline. We typically expect a ratio of about 40% teaching to 60% research.

Award Length

Four months; For Flex grants, see Flex Option section.

Award Dates

Grants must begin in August 2022. For Flex grants, see the Flex Option section. We typically recommend that Fulbright Scholars in The Bahamas time their program to coincide with the university academic year, which matches the U.S. academic year (starting in August, and ending in June).

Though applicants may propose to begin their programs in the spring semester (January 2023), they must demonstrate the concurrence of the host institution and a justification as to why they are choosing to start half-way through the academic year.

All Scholars to the Bahamas are required to attend a pre-departure orientation, which typically takes place in late June 2022, prior to beginning their Fulbright grant.

Flex Option

Yes

Flex Description

The Flex Award is designed for scholars who require multiple visits to the host country. This option allows grants to be conducted over short segments, preferably during the fall and/or spring semesters. Interested applicants should clearly indicate plans for Flex in their project statement, including a project timeline. Flex grantees may be asked to give public talks, mentor students and otherwise engage with the host country's academic community.

Flex grant parameters:

- Minimum length of the total grant is four months and the maximum is six months.
- Minimum length for any grant segment is one month and the maximum is three months.
- Two or three grant segments may be spread over one or two consecutive years.
- Flex awards are offered for teaching/research and research grants.

For more information, please see Fulbright Flex Awards ^[2].
