It is ranked in the world’s top 100 universities and the UK’s top 20 in the QS World University Rankings. It was also named as the Sports University of the Year for 2021 in The Times and The Sunday Times Good University Guide.

The University’s roots date back to 1881 and it has been awarding degrees since 1948. Its campuses in the UK, China, and Malaysia are home to over 47,500 students from more than 150 countries, and its global alumni community numbers almost 300,000 Nottingham graduates worldwide.

The University has a history of world-changing research, from the development of MRI technology to the ongoing fight against modern slavery and world hunger. The Research Excellence Framework (REF) ranks Nottingham 8th in the UK for research power.
