Stipend
A fixed living allowance of SEK 27,000 (approx. $2,850 USD and untaxed) per month is provided. Grant periods may range between three and six months. A separate housing allowance is not provided. Grantees are responsible for arranging their own housing and should contact their host institution/adviser for assistance.

Estimated Travel and Relocation Allowance
Round-trip travel for grantee only.

Dependent Tuition Allowance
The grant provides for an additional dependent allowance of SEK 1,000 per month for the first accompanying dependent (spouse) and SEK 500 per month for each additional accompanying dependent up to a maximum of three. Dependents must accompany grantee for the entire grant period to be eligible for the dependent benefit allowance. All allowances are a flat amount paid in Swedish kronor.

Public schools are usually free of charge from primary through the upper-secondary level and many public and private schools offer English instruction through primary and upper-secondary levels. However, grantees should be aware that personal funds are usually necessary to cover costs for accompanying dependents, including the additional cost of daycare and international schools. Please note that children of grantees may be eligible to receive subsidized daycare and free schooling as long as the other parent is working or studying. It is the responsibility of the grantee to contact any schools and daycare centers directly to negotiate the terms of stay and applicable costs.
