Stipend

Monthly base stipend of $4,250 for faculty at the associate professor, professor rank or the professional equivalent, and $4,050 for faculty at or below the assistant professor rank and professional equivalents. Monthly maintenance allowance of $500 payable in Egyptian Pounds (EGP).

The monthly maintenance allowance increases by $100 (payable in EGP) per dependent, for a maximum of two accompanying dependents who spend at least 80 percent of the grant period with the grantee in Egypt.

Fulbright U.S. Scholars do not need to use their stipend to cover housing, as this is covered separately as a special award benefit (See Special Award Benefits). Therefore, the allowance package offered by the Binational Fulbright Commission in Egypt is considerably higher than the cost of living in Egypt.

Estimated Travel and Relocation Allowance

International travel and relocation allowance for grantee is provided; plus, international travel allowance is provided for up to one accompanying dependent.

Dependent Tuition Allowance

A maximum of $10,000 per child or $20,000 per family, or its equivalent in EGP, for qualifying dependent children in grades K-12 is reimbursed, against receipts, for a full academic year. Amount is prorated for shorter grant periods.

Special Award Benefits

For the Science award only, a maximum of $2,000 for specialized materials purchased is reimbursable against receipts for research and teaching/research grants. Scholars must submit a proposal for specialized materials in collaboration with the host institution, contingent upon approval by the Fulbright Commission.

Housing is provided separately as a special award benefit.

A one-time professional allowance of $1,400 is provided for grants of four months or more, payable in EGP. For grants of fewer than four months, scholars receive a one-time professional allowance of $820, payable in EGP. The exchange rate for allowances payable in EGP is determined at the time that the grant document is issued.

Limited funds are available for scholars whose research will require supplemental Arabic language study while in country. Justification statement and plan of study must be submitted, pending availability of funds and approval of proposal. Reimbursement will be in EGP against original receipts.

Language Proficiency Requirements

None, English is sufficient.
