Award Type
Fulbright Scholar Award

Number of Recipients
Approximately 2

Stipend

Monthly base stipend of $4,250 for faculty at the associate professor, professor rank or the professional equivalent, and $4,050 for faculty at or below the assistant professor rank and professional equivalents. Monthly maintenance allowance of $500 payable in Egyptian Pounds (EGP). The monthly maintenance allowance increases by $100 (payable in EGP) per dependent, for a maximum of two accompanying dependents who spend at least 80 percent of the grant period with the grantee in Egypt. Fulbright U.S. Scholars do not need to use their stipend to cover housing, as this is covered separately as a special award benefit (See Special Award Benefits). Therefore, the allowance package offered by the Binational Fulbright Commission in Egypt is considerably higher than the cost of living in Egypt.

Estimated Travel and Relocation Allowance

International travel and relocation allowance for grantee is provided; plus, international travel allowance is provided for one accompanying dependent.

Dependent Tuition Allowance

A maximum of $10,000 per child or $20,000 per family, or its equivalent in EGP, for qualifying dependent children in grades K-12 is reimbursed, against receipts, for a full academic year. Amount is prorated for shorter grant periods.

Areas of Interest
Business is a highly sought field in Egypt.

Applications are sought in all specializations commonly taught at U.S. business schools, including but not limited to: entrepreneurship and innovation management, general management, finance, economics, human resource management, international management, accounting, marketing, strategic business management, operations and supply chain management, business analysis and social media marketing and management.

Special Features
During their grant period, Fulbright U.S. Scholars in the Middle East and North Africa region may apply for a short-term regional travel grant (five to 14 days) for participation in a variety of activities including faculty and student lectures, graduate or faculty seminars, curriculum development, public lectures, panel presentations, needs assessment, conferences, or some combination thereof.

Degree Requirements
Ph.D. (or other terminal degree) required

Additional Qualification Information
A Ph.D. is required; a minimum of five years higher education teaching experience in the field of specialization of the project is recommended.

Additional Language Requirement
All teaching will be in English; additional language proficiency not required. For projects that involve a research component, Arabic language proficiency is generally not required for business-related fields; however, it is preferable for the applicant to demonstrate the feasibility of conducting the research in English in the project statement.

Invitation Requirement
A letter of invitation is optional.

Additional Comments
Final awards are contingent upon medical clearance, clearance by the Government of Egypt, the availability of funds, and the security situation in country.

Special Award Benefits

Housing is provided separately as a special award benefit.

A one-time professional allowance of $1,400 is provided for grants of four months or more, payable in EGP. For grants of fewer than four months, scholars receive a one-time professional allowance of $820, payable in EGP. The exchange rate for allowances payable in EGP is determined at the time that the grant document is issued.

Limited funds are available for scholars whose research will require supplemental Arabic language study while in country. Justification statement and plan of study must be submitted, pending availability of funds and approval of proposal. Reimbursement will be in EGP against original receipts.

Language Proficiency Requirements
None, English is sufficient. However, feasibility of conducting the project must be demonstrated in the project statement.
