Flex Description

The Flex Award is designed for scholars who require multiple visits to the host country. This option allows grants to be conducted over short segments, preferably during the fall and/or spring semesters. Interested applicants should clearly indicate plans for Flex in their project statement, including a project timeline. Flex grantees may be asked to give public talks, mentor students and otherwise engage with the host-country academic community.

Flex grant parameters:
- Minimum length of the total grant is four months and the maximum is six months.
- Minimum length for any grant segment is one month and the maximum is three months.
- Two or three grant segments may be spread over one or two consecutive years.
- Flex awards are offered for teaching, teaching/research and research grants.

Special Features

The U.S. Embassy in Barbados is accredited to seven islands nations in the Eastern Caribbean. The countries Antigua and Barbuda, Barbados, Dominica, Grenada, St. Kitts and Nevis, St. Lucia, and St. Vincent and Grenadines are independent nation states that share a rich heritage. It is important to note that while the islands share common challenges, there is diversity not just in landscape but also in the areas that they identify as priorities. The ethnic composition of this region is approximately 93% Afro Caribbean with the remaining 7% comprising persons of European, Asian and Indo-Caribbean descent.

The educational Institutions can be contacted to provide advice on suitable housing options and communities as well as to offer guidance on options for transportation while on the island.

Immigration Requirements

Each island has specific immigration requirements for visitors. The U.S. Embassy requests that applicants discuss with their host institutions what these requirements are so that any necessary applications and submission of documentation can be started in a timely manner.

Degree Requirements

Ph.D. (or other terminal degree) not required

Additional Qualification Information

Scholars with a Ph.D. are encouraged, but applicants who possess a master's degree with substantial professional experience will be considered. At least three years of teaching experience is required for projects with a teaching component.

Additional Language Requirement

All teaching will be in English; additional language proficiency is not required.

Invitation Requirement

A letter of invitation is preferred

Additional Comments

Applicants are encouraged to contact the various institutions of higher education located in these nations or the Public Affairs Section of the U.S. Embassy in Bridgetown for further information.

University of the West Indies - Cave Hill Campus:

The Cave Hill Campus of the University of the West Indies is a multi-campus regional university serving the English-speaking Caribbean, with campuses located in Barbados, Jamaica and Trinidad. It is the only university at that level in our area of responsibility. It offers programs in liberal arts, pure and applied sciences, and education, as well as professional training in law and medicine. Postgraduate programs are offered in all disciplines under the aegis of the School of Graduate Studies and Research. Over the years, the university has developed major areas of strength at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels in legal education and training, environmental studies, alternative energy, biotechnology, executive management and chronic diseases, among other fields.

The Campus has also developed centers of excellence in numerous fields, including:

§ The Centre for Resource Management and Environmental Studies (CERMES), which promotes and facilitates sustainable development in the Caribbean and beyond.

§ The Sir Arthur Lewis Institute of Social and Economic Studies (SALISES). The Institute is a research and graduate teaching entity located within the University’s School of Graduate Studies and Research. It focuses on social, economic and political issues and hence is aligned to the Faculty of Social Sciences of the University. The focus of the research and technical assistance program is on economic and social development policy and governance and public policy in the Caribbean and other small developing countries.

§ The Institute for Gender and Development Studies: Nita Barrow Unit (IGDS: NBU) uses gender analysis to investigate material and ideological relations of gender affecting Caribbean women and men. Their mission is to produce and disseminate knowledge to transform gender relations in the Caribbean, in support of the University's mission to enhance regional and international development. The Institute is at the forefront of teaching, research and outreach on issues related to women, gender and sexuality in Caribbean society.

Teaching and research are supported by a number of institutes and projects, among them the Cave Hill School of Business, the Caribbean Law Institute and Justice Improvement Project, the Center for Environmental Studies and Resource Management, the Caribbean Agricultural Research and Development Institute, and the Distance Learning Center and its Open Campus, which is available in 16 Caribbean islands. Visit the website for the University of the West Indies. [Contact Information: Ms. Anthea Hinkson, Assistant Registrar, Human Resources; telephone: 246-417-4073.]

Community Colleges in the Eastern Caribbean:

Antigua: The Antigua State College offers programs in the liberal arts and in pure and applied sciences under its Advanced Level Department; Department of Business; Engineering Department; Department of Teacher Education; School of Nursing and Department of Undergraduate Studies. Emerging out of an agreement with the University of the West Indies - Cave Hill, the College offers Level 1 and Level 2 programs throughout the faculties of Humanities, Social Sciences and Science and Technology. Contact: Mr. Hyram Forde, Principal; Tel 1-268-462-1434

Barbados:

The Barbados Community College offers associate degrees in arts, economics, applied arts and applied sciences. The college also offers three bachelor's degree programs in fine arts, technical and vocational education, and tourism and hospitality management. Contact Dr. Ian Austin, Principal.

Dominica: Dominica State College offers associate programs in the liberal arts, economics and the sciences. The associate of arts program is designed for students who plan to transfer into a bachelor's degree program at universities overseas. The college now also offers a bachelor's degree program in nursing. Contact Dr. Schuyler Esprit, Registrar; telephone: 1-767-440-4941. If you are interested in doing research in Dominica, please reach out to the U.S. Embassy in Barbados as well.

Grenada: The T.A. Marryshow Community College offers associate degrees in art and design, building construction, cultural studies, electrical and electronic engineering, mechanical engineering, nursing, general education and education and hospitality management. These degrees are administered through its three schools: the School of Arts, Sciences and Professional Studies; the School of Applied Arts and Technology; and the School of Continuing Education. The main campus of the College is located in Tanteen, St George's. The College operates an Agricultural Department at Mirabeau in the parish of St. Andrew. A campus with selective programs was established on the sister isle of Carriacou in October 2004. Contact Mrs. Marva Bowen-Neptune, Deputy Registrar; telephone: 1-473-440-1389.

St. Kitts and Nevis: The Clarence Fitzroy Bryant College offers associate degrees in the arts and sciences, education, health sciences, and technical and vocational education. Established in 1988 as the College of Further Education, it was mandated to consolidate and augment opportunities for tertiary-level education. Clarence Fitzroy Bryant came into existence with the amalgamation of four previously existing institutions: the School of Nursing inaugurated in 1966; the Teacher's College established in 1967; the Technical College organized in 1971; and the Sixth-Form school. Contact Dr. Jacqueline Austin, President; telephone: 869-465-2856.

St. Lucia: Sir Arthur Lewis Community College is the premier tertiary institution of St. Lucia and offers students a variety of professional and vocational study opportunities commencing from the Certificate level through to the Bachelor's degree level. Under its Departments of Arts and Humanities; Building Studies; Business; Continuing Education; Curriculum Development; Electrical and Electronic Engineering and Technology; Health Sciences; Hospitality and Tourism; Mathematics and Natural Sciences and Mechanical Engineering and Technology, the college offers instruction in the following areas: business, building, computer systems, hospitality, electronics, primary and secondary education, home economics, agriculture (including livestock, field crops, marketing and business), nursing, food and nutrition, midwifery and general arts and sciences.
